

MY LOVE BATTLES WITH MISS WHIPLASH

VICE QUEEN'S LESBIAN LOVE CHILD

Flashback . . . to Tuesday's Sun

ANOTHER SUN EXCLUSIVE

By GEORGE LYNN

THE lesbian lover of murdered vice queen Christie Offord told yesterday how they fought bitterly over their "love-child."

Gay mum Margi Dunbar sobbed as she recalled her stormy rows with Miss Whiplash, whose naked body was found strangled and bound in her basement torture chamber.

Their bizarre eight-year "marriage" ran into trouble when kinky Christie, 35, decided she wanted to "father" Margi's baby.

A lesbian group referred them to a doctor prepared to artificially inseminate gay women—and in 1983 their son was born.

But Margi's joy turned sour when she realised "fatherhood" was having a weird effect on Christie. "After the baby was born she became more and more butch," said Margi, 29.

"She dressed in men's clothes—even down to men's pants and underwear. She liked a pint and a cigar.

Distasteful

"She would get me to dress up in a nightie and expect me to treat her as if she was a man.

"I began to find it all very distasteful," added Margi. "I'm a gay girl and I wanted to make love to another woman—not someone who was becoming more and more like a man.

"The last straw was when Christie said she wanted a sex change—our rows got worse and worse."

Former vice-girl Margi decided to go back to prostitution after the birth of her son—who is now in council care.

Perverted

"Christie wouldn't hear of it," said Margi. "We had some dreadful rows and even came to blows over it."

The murdered prostitute charged men £100-an-hour for her perverted services at her luxury flat in Queen's Gate, South Kensington.

But she insisted that Margi stay with the baby and Christie's two teenage children from her broken marriage at their £100,000 house in Hounslow, West London.

"She became even more jealous and possessive," said Margi. "She considered herself the man-about-the-house and the family breadwinner."

Furious Margi rebelled and set up a rival torture chamber in London's Cornwall Gardens—just down the road from Christie's vice den.

"I cater for even kinkier clients than Christie did," she said, showing off her massive rack, whips and plastic maces.

Her instruments of torture also include an electric hot-air paint stripper—which costs her kinky clients extra.

Five weeks ago she had their last row with Christie and walked out.

Suspected

"Then last weekend the police told me she'd been murdered," said Margi. She admits detectives suspected her and she spent three days in custody.

When she was released Margi discovered magistrates had put her baby son into the care of Hounslow Council.

Social workers will decide his future in the next three weeks.

"Now I've lost Christie, he's all I've got left," sobbed Margi. "I couldn't bear to lose him too."

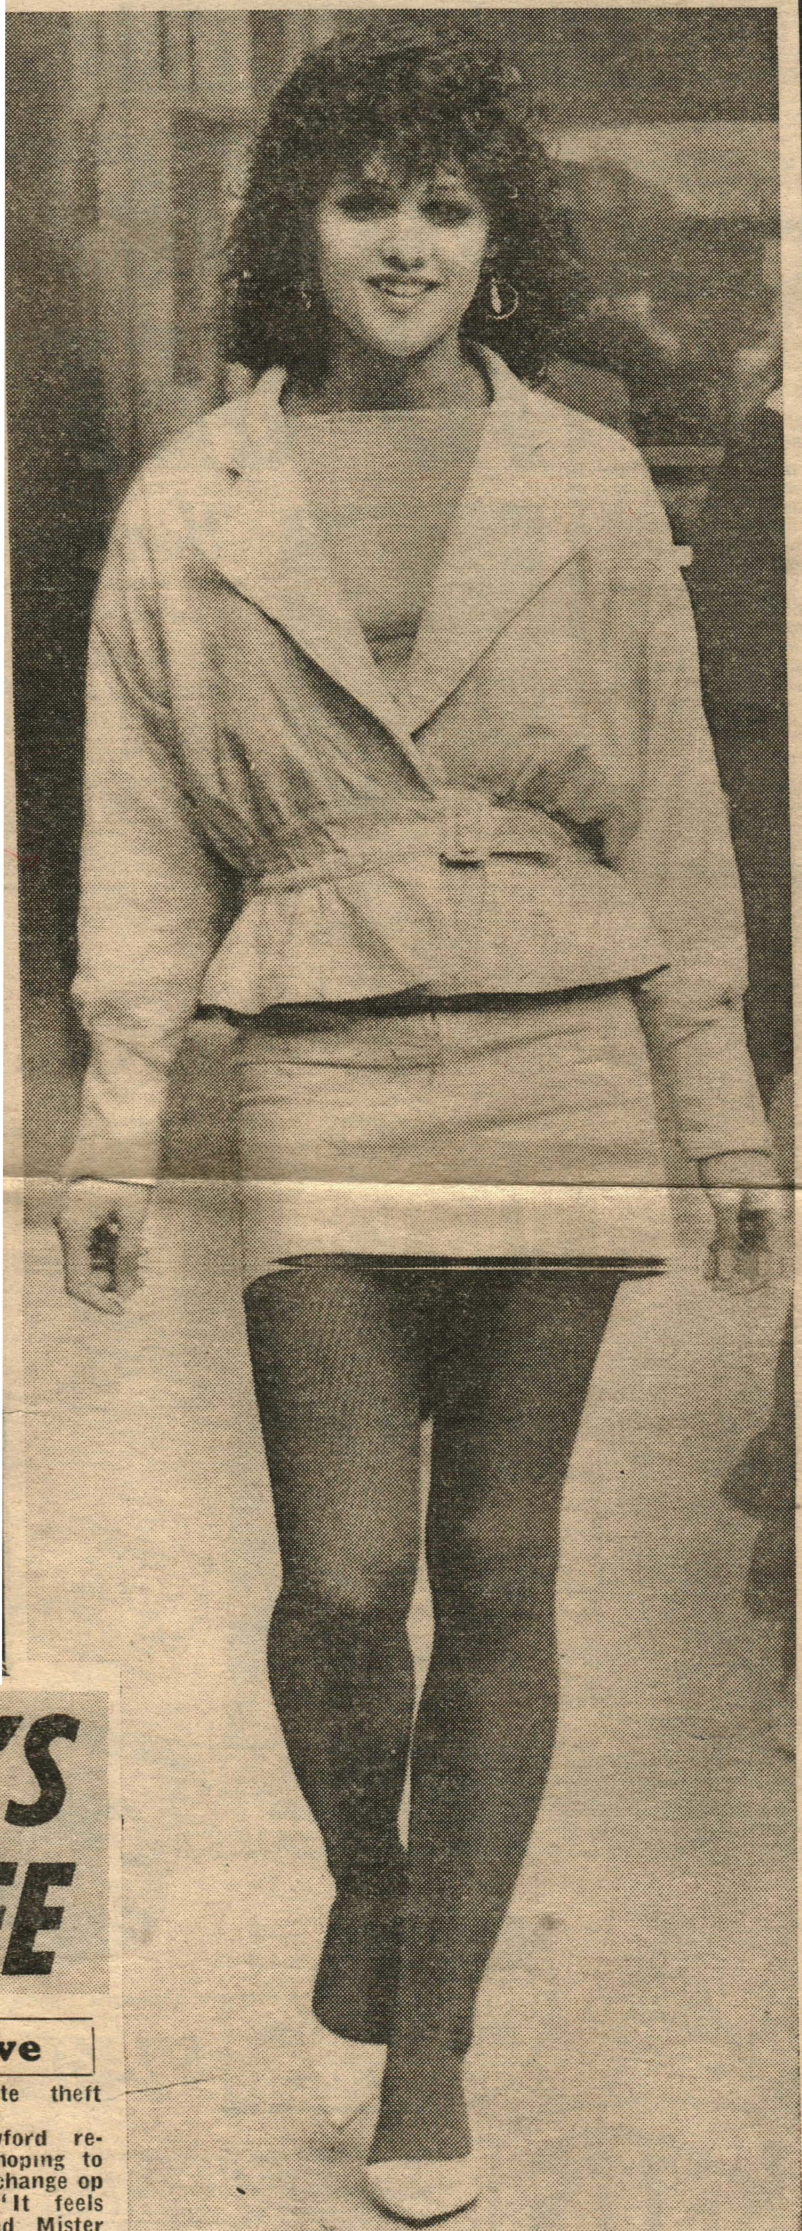

POLICE believe Christie could have been murdered by TWO of her regular clients.

They think it would have been impossible for just one man to overpower the powerfully-built prostitute.

GEE! THAT'S Mr McGHEE

By SUN REPORTER
MISTER Crawford McGhee caused a sensation in court yesterday when he arrived dressed as a woman.

The 19-year-old youth appeared before magistrates in a denim mini-skirt, pink blouse, pearls, high heels and lipstick.

Stunned officials addressed him as Mr McGhee throughout the ten-minute theft hearing.

Afterwards Crawford revealed that he is hoping to have a £20,000 sex change operation—and admitted: "It feels strange being called Mister now."

"I think the court officials
